SAMUEL.
THOMAS,
nephew of William, the emigrant,
went to America 1704.

PREFACE.

IN 1876, after an absence of twenty-five years, I returned to Bucks County on a visit, and had the pleasure of seeing all of the papers which conveyed lands from William Penn to William Yardley (the emigrant), which papers are now in the possession of A. S. Cadwallader, at Yardley. On this occasion I for the first time learned the fact that we were not the descendants of William (the emigrant), but of his nephew, Thomas, who came to America in 1704. With this new light, a desire to know more of our ancestors was awakened, and I was encouraged to commence this investigation of the family history. My success has been greater than I anticipated, but I leave much undone for others, who may desire to go farther into the records of the past, to make my work still more complete. As will be seen I have only given the descendants of the oldest son of our English ancestor; the other sons left no descendants, and the descendants of the daughters I have not attempted to trace.

If the result of my labor here and researches in England shall give pleasure and interest to the family, I shall not have labored in vain.

THOMAS W. YARDLEY.

YARDLEY, PA., July, 1881.

NOTE.

FOR convenience of reference, and to facilitate a quick understanding of the line of direct descent, various devices of numbers and types have been used.

The descendants of John Yardley are numbered, to distinguish each, by the figures at the left of the page; and such of them as became heads of families, have their distinctive numbers repeated in large type in the middle of the page, over the statement of their marriage. A heavy antique letter has been adopted in printing their names, and an italic letter for the names of those to whom they were married.

YARDLEY.

THE first record we have of the name, is that of "William Yardley, L. M.," a witness to the signing of the first Magna Charta given by John I to England, dated June 15th, 1215. "The great charter was executed in the presence of many of the clergy and nobles." It is possible his ancestors first made their appearance in England as followers of William the Conqueror; but, from the time of this invasion to the year 1215, and from this date to 1400, we have not obtained any well-connected trace of the name. From 1400 to 1682, when the emigrant William Yardley came to America, the records found are complete.

In the "Patronymica Britannica" we find the family is spoken of as an ancient one, with residence in Staffordshire, England, and whose heads were called "lords of Yardley."

Their coat of arms are "argent, on a chevron azure three garbs or, on a canton gules, a fret or," Crest, "a buck, courant, gu. attired or."

In the absence of reliable information previous to the year 1400, we commence with the

11. Thomas came to America in 1704, and married Ann, daughter of William Biles, of Pennsbury, Bucks County, Pa.

William (the emigrant) married Jane ——. There were three sons, Enoch, William and Thomas. They emigrated to America with their servant, Andrew Heath, "in the good ship Friend's Adventure," arriving in the Delaware River 7th month 28th, 1682. Soon thereafter they located on the west side of the river, three miles above the falls where is now the city of Trenton, N. J., and near the present town of Yardley, Bucks County, Pa., on the land purchased under an agreement with Wm. Penn, dated 3d month 20th, 1681, [this was only sixteen days after the grant from Charles II to Wm. Penn], covering some five hundred acres. The consideration-money was £10, as per receipt, and deed bearing date 3d month 21st, 1681, [now in the possession of A. S. Cadwallader, at Yardley, Bucks County]. The location of the land was made, the survey completed and patent issued 10th month 20th, 1682. The place was called "Prospect Farm," and by that name it is now known.

As an additional inducement to the first settlers to purchase not less than five hundred acres, Wm. Penn gave to each purchaser of that amount a lot of ground to be located in the city of Philadelphia. Lot No. 8, north of Chestnut Street, extending from Second to Third Streets, was given to Wm. Yardley. After his death, his sons (who were his heirs) sold the lot to Edward Shippen, of Philadelphia, 8th month 21st, 1696; the deed, however, was not recorded until 7th month 28th, 1768.

With the exception of a few years, "Prospect Farm" has always been in the possession of some member of the Yardley family. It is now owned by, and is the residence of, Thomas S. Cadwallader.

At the time of William Yardley's death, he was an active member of the Society of "Friends." Thomas Janney, in his "Memorials Concerning the Lives of the Early Colonists," says: "That in his (William Yardley's) early life, he sought the knowledge of God, and joined in society with a spiritually-minded people, who called themselves 'the family of love.' He afterward was convinced of the principles of 'Friends,' and, joining in fellowship with them, was called to the ministry about the twenty-third year of his age. He traveled in various parts of the nation, preaching the Gospel, and suffered imprisonment for conscience' sake nineteen weeks, during seventeen of which his only resting-place was the bare floor of his cell. He represented Bucks County in the first Colonial Assembly, and was afterward an active member of the Provincial Council." 1st month, 7th, 1686, Thomas Janney offered "Slate Pitt Hill" to Falls Meeting of "Friends" as a burying-ground. It was accepted, and deeded to Wm. Yardley and others, in trust forever, for that purpose. It is now known as the "Stone Grave-yard," and is situated one mile east of Yardley, on the road to Fallsington. From that time till 1800, it was the principal burying-ground for "Friends;" and, doubtless, in these grounds were buried all the Yardleys who died in this country prior to the Revolutionary War.

Soon after the death of William's wife, Jane, 6th month 28th, 1691, he bequeathed by will to his eldest son, Enoch, one-half of "Prospect Farm," and the remaining half to William and Thomas. They, by deed dated 4th month 4th, 1702, conveyed their moiety to Enoch.

Enoch, eldest son of William and Jane Yardley, married Mary, daughter of Robert Fletcher, of Philadelphia, Pa., 10th month 1697.

Thomas, d. 11 mo. 23, 1702-3.

The records of Bucks County show that small-pox prevailed to an alarming extent in the southern townships of the county in the winter of 1702-3; this will doubtless account for the great mortality of the Yardley family at that time.

Mary Yardley, widow of Enoch, married Joseph, son of Matthew and Maudlin Kirkbride, of the parish of Kirkbride, County Cumberland, England [she was his third wife]. He was born 7th month 29th 1662; came to America in 1681, and settled in Falls Township, Bucks County, Pa. On the 13th of 1st month, 1688, he was married to Phebe Blackshaw at Middletown meeting of "Friends."

Joseph married a second wife, Sarah Stacy, daughter of Mahlon and Rebecca, of Burlington, N. J., 10th month 17th, 1702. They were married in meeting of "Friends." In his marriage certificate he is called "yoeman."

Sarah died 9th month 29th, 1703. leaving one child, Mahlon, born 9th month 3d, 1703, who married Mary, daughter of John and Mary Setcher, of Pennsbury, Bucks County.

Mahlon died 11th month 17th, 1776, leaving a widow and twelve children; among them there was one daughter, Sarah, born 12th month 13th, 1729, who married William Yardley (17) for his second wife, 3d month 31st, 1756. She died 1st month 21st, 1783, leaving nine children. See Wm. Yardley (17).

Joseph married a third wife, Mary (née Fletcher) Yardley, widow of Enoch Yardley, 11th month 17th, 1704-5.

Hester (née Baker) Yardley, widow of Thomas, married William, son of James Browne, of Chichester or Concord, Chester County, Pa., 8th month , 1704.

William Yardley (9) the emigrant, his wife, children and grandchildren all being dead, his property in America reverted to his heirs-at-law in England, who were his brother Thomas (8) and nephew Samuel (10).

In 1704, we find Thomas (11) "the younger," son of Thomas (8) and brother of Samuel (10), in Philadelphia, Pa., with power of attorney from his father and brother for the sale of the property and settlement of the estate (of William the emigrant, deceased). He was to receive one-fifth of the net proceeds as compensation therefor. Samuel Carpenter, Richard Hough and Richard Heath were empowered to co-operate therein.

"Prospect Farm" was sold 5th month 25th, 1710, to Joseph Janney for "three hundred and fifty pounds, current money of Pennsylvania," and was so deeded by Carpenter, Heath and Yardley, "the younger."

6th month 14th, 1710, Thomas Yardley (11) purchased the same from Joseph Janney, for the same consideration, and it was so deeded.

In 1800, Thomas Yardley was appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania one of the Justices of Bucks County.

The following short sketch of the character of Thomas Yardley, by Wm. R. Atlee, of Yardleyville, appeared in the Bucks County Intelligencer soon after his death:

"It is seldom we hear of the fall of such a man. To his family and friends their loss will be irreparable, and society will lament it as a void not easily to be filled. In all the relations of husband, father, citizen and friend, he had but few equals—no superior. In his intercourse with others, he was courteous and polite; in all his dealings, rigidly honest and scrupulously punctual, never delaying for to-morrow the duties of to-day. He always acted in conformity to the golden rule, of doing as he would be done by. In morals he was sound, even to fastidiousness; in religion firm and consistent, though liberal and tolerant. As a member of the society of 'Friends,' he zealously supported the principles he professed, and lived just long enough to witness and regret the schism which threatened to shake the church of his fathers to its foundation. Mr. Yardley's mind was naturally strong and discriminating, and, by much profita-

His reading and intercourse with the best society, had become highly cultured; hence, in strength and soundness of judgment, he had but few equals in his county.

"When called to the performance of any of those duties to which all are liable, and which all owe to their country and to each other, he was ever ready; nor did he ever decide without maturely considering his subject; and, although ever open to conviction, his opinions, when formed, and decisions, when made, were pertinaciously adhered to. In deciding questions submitted to his consideration, he was governed by the strict rule of right, when compatible with legislative enactments; but his firm conviction of the weight of legal enactments upon all never permitted him to infringe any of its known and defined rules to serve the views of any person.

"The widow and the orphan, to whose interests and concerns a great part of his time had been devoted, will feel the loss of a zealous advocate and friend, and the honest and industrious poor of a benefactor, whose place to them will not be easily supplied."

"We regret deeply to announce the death, at one o'clock Saturday morning last, of Edward Yardley, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, at Bethlehem, Penna. The fatal disease to which he succumbed was paralysis.

"Edward Yardley was born near Yardleyville, Bucks County, Penna., November 6th, 1802, and came to Pottsville to reside August 23d, 1843. He descended from an old English family, most of whom united with George Fox, the great Quaker and leader of that sect. His immediate ancestors came to this country with Wm. Penn, whilst the other branch of the family settled in Virginia [Sir George Yardley having been appointed one of the three Colonial Governors of that province]. In early life he married a granddaughter of Thomas Lancaster, a celebrated Quaker preacher.

"Mr. Yardley was a thorough Quaker, both through a long line of Quaker blood as well as by religious conviction, and, during an active life, through prosperity and adversity, he was known as a just man.

"Mr. Yardley was the first to suggest the erection of a monument to Henry Clay, the great statesman, and, in connection with his ever true friends, Franklin Hewson and Samuel Sillyman, the first monument to Henry Clay was erected in Pottsville, Penna."
